Open for Individual Consultants

1. About QADER

QADER for Community Development is a Palestinian independent, non-governmental, not-for-profit, and rights-based organization focused on disability and inclusion in Palestine. Established in 2008 and officially registered with the Palestinian Ministry of Interior on July 23, 2008, QADER leads a twin-track approach, dedicated to the empowerment and protection of children, women, and youth with disabilities from marginalization, discrimination, and all forms of disability-based and gender-based violence. QADER is committed to aligning societal, institutional, and policy contexts with the principles of "disability inclusion" and "leave no one behind" in Palestine. Through this alignment, QADER strives to foster active engagement and meaningful participation across diverse facets of life, ensuring full entitlement to rights as mandated by local laws and international human rights conventions and standards. QADER engages in international advocacy efforts through monitoring and documenting human rights violations and international crimes, legal analysis, and reporting, to foster avenues for accountability and protect the rights of persons with disabilities. (www.qader.org).

2. About the Assignment/Background and Rationale

QADER for Community Development is deeply committed to sustaining and advancing its human resource capacities as part of its organizational development strategy. To this end, QADER systematically implements annual capacity-building plans aimed at enhancing the technical competencies of its staff across various thematic and operational areas. These efforts include mobilizing both internal and external resources to provide targeted capacity development opportunities, covering technical knowledge, practical skills, tools, methodologies, and systems, through direct engagement with specialized consultants, training workshops, and professional development programs offered by partners or specialized service providers.

QADER views technical capacity development as an essential investment that extends beyond improving internal efficiency and performance. It is a key enabler for improving the quality of interventions, achieving sustainable outcomes for target groups, particularly persons with disabilities, women, children, and youth, and progressing toward the organization's mission, vision, and strategic objectives. These capacity-building efforts are also closely tied to QADER's broader institutional development process, which includes the continuous review and improvement of its systems, policies, procedures, and tools to ensure alignment between organizational capacities and strategic goals.

Within this broader framework, QADER places significant importance on the function of Monitoring, Evaluation, Accountability, and Learning (MEAL), recognizing it as a cornerstone for effective program implementation, quality assurance, and evidence-based decision-making. Since its establishment in 2008, QADER has gradually advanced its MEAL function, primarily at the project level. However, institutionalization of MEAL across the organization, including its integration into strategic planning and management, remains a work in progress.

Several tools and systems have already been developed as part of QADER's efforts to structure and institutionalize MEAL processes. However, multiple constraints continue to limit the full realization of this function within a reasonable timeframe. The MEAL function is currently managed by a single staff member who also bears cross-cutting responsibilities, including program development and resource mobilization. This has limited the capacity to allocate sufficient time and effort toward the development and institutionalization of a comprehensive MEAL system. Furthermore, the lack of a MEAL assistant, coupled with increasing demands from programs and donors, has further strained the existing capacity.

Additionally, the fast-paced evolution of MEAL methodologies and technologies presents another challenge. Keeping pace with the emerging best practices and integrating them into the organization's systems and workflows requires focused technical support, which is currently beyond the capacity of the internal team.

In response to the outlined challenges and in alignment with its annual capacity-building plan, QADER intends to engage external technical expertise in the field of Monitoring, Evaluation, Accountability, and Learning (MEAL). This step reflects the organization's recognition of the need to enhance internal capacities and systems to keep pace with the evolving demands of program quality, accountability, and evidence-based management. Drawing on external support will enable QADER to address current capacity limitations, accelerate the institutionalization of MEAL practices, and ensure the integration of up-to-date methodologies and tools into its organizational framework. This initiative is part of QADER's broader commitment to strengthening its institutional effectiveness and maximizing the impact of its interventions across all program areas.

3. Purpose of the Assignment/Overall Objective

The overall objective of this consultancy is to strengthen QADER's organizational MEAL capacity through targeted technical support, system development, and professional coaching. The assignment aims to institutionalize effective MEAL practices across the organization by enhancing the technical competencies of the Program Development and MEAL Manager, improving MEAL tools and methodologies, and supporting the development and implementation of a coherent, organization-wide MEAL system. This will enable QADER to generate high-quality data, improve learning and accountability mechanisms, and ensure that evidence effectively informs strategic and programmatic decision-making.

4. Specific Objectives
